TORNADO IN NEW YORK. - On Thursday night about 9 o'clock (says the New York Evening Post.), a northwest rain storm suddenly came up, accompanied by a fierce wind. The rain poured down intorrents for five minutes, during which the buildings and shipping at Atlantic Docks, South Brooklyn, sustained considerable damage. Stores No. 58, 60, 62, and 88, occupied by the government, were stripped of their zinc roofing; the hoisting wheels in front of one or two of the stores were also blown away. The boiler and machine shop of Henry Esler & Co. was blown down. The door of the shop at the time was open, and the wind entered and filled the building. The air lifted the roof from the supports, and it fell over to the side of the boiler shop, carrying the latter with it to the ground. No one was hurt. The damage to building and work is estimated at $6,000. A candle factory was also blown down; the steam dredge boat Boston was badly damaged, and other injury was done. The Palmer Oil Works, a large new building at Red Hook, owned by Gwynne & Co., was struck by lightning, which tore the roof off, and soon afterwards the whole building was prostrated. This building was erected upon the ruins of one demolished by the tornado of April, 1853, and was a costly structure. The Composite Oil Works, on the some premises and belonging to the same proprietors, were also badly damaged.

Strange to say, there does not appear to have been any loss of life. The damage to property must exceed $100,000, which, so far as the shipping is concerned, is probably covered by insurance. The great proportion of the loss, however, is to the buildings.

TREMENDOUS STORM IN PHILADELPHIA .-On Friday afternoon, Philadelphia was visited by a violent thunder storm. Many of the streets ere flooded to the depth of several feet, many he cellars containing valuable goods were inundated before anything could be got out, and some of the culverts gave way. The laboratory of Power & Weightman, at the corner of Ninth and Parish streets, was inundated. The loss of this firm is about $15,000. Along Ninth and Tenth streets, in the neighborhood, the cellars all suffered more or was,

In Market street, near Fifth, Messrs. Samuel Hood & Co.'s cellar was filled. They had about seven feet of water in it. Messrs. Shaffer, Roberts, & Co., Hays & Zell, and others in the immediate vicinity, suffered considerably. The loss to these gentlemen will amount to several thousand dollars.

The cellar of the drug-store of Mr. C. C. Moore, at the northeast corner of Eighteenth and Vine streets, was completely fileed. The water destroyed about $1,000 worth of goods here

EAST INDIA SQUADRON .- Advices have been received at the Navy Department from Commodore Joel Abbot, who commands this squadron, to the 3d of May, when the Macedonian, his flag-ship, was at Shanghai. She left Hong Kong on the 6th April, reaching Shanghai in rteen days, beating the fast sailing American clipper ship Mandarin, although the latter had three days the start. The United States steam frigate Powhatan, Captain McCluney, was at Shanghai at the same date, bound in a short time to Hong Kong, touching at Amoy on her passage thither. The Vandalia, Commander Pope, had been ordered to proceed to Guam, one of the Ladrone Islands, to make a rigid investigation into the truth of certain allegations of oppressive treatment by the Governor of Guam towards a portion of the passengers and crew belonging to the American bark Sarah Myers, wrecked on Raven Island.

SUNK AGAIN .- The old steamer Hermann, bound from St. Louis up the Missouri river with a cargo of whisky, molasses, salt, &c., struck a snag on Friday night and sunk, nearly opposite St. Charles. The bow is sunk about ten feet deep, aft the water is not above the guard. The boat is either broken in two or in a fair way to become so, and will no doubt be a total loss. She is owned by Capt. Newkirk. This is about the third time this boat has been sunk, she is very old, and was of little account

THE MONARCHS OF THE WOOD. The brave old monarchs of the ancient wood!

For ages they have battled with the storm,

The envious clouds have pelted them with hail,

The lightning seathed them with its lurid lance, And the Geree whirlwind wrenched them in its wrath.
As mortals, chastened by affliction's rod,
Grew firmer, at each trial, in the faith,
So these tall Titans of the wilderness
Are stronger for their struggle with the storm.

When at their feet their predecessors fell, Spring covered their remains with mourning moss, And wrote their epitaph in pale weed-flowers, And summer gave ripe berries to the birds To stay and sing their sad sweet requiem.
These trees are throued apon their fathers' graves.
And the same sun that warmed the ancestral stem
Floods all the clouded wood with living light.

1 love to gaze upon the grand old trees, And hear the whisper of their waving leaves, As mortals softly speak the tenderest vows With lip to lip and arm eneireling arm. I've seen them elad in autnmn's golden pomp When leaves were red and seemed like flakes of fire, And the deserted nest in silence swayed Like a sad heart beneath a royal searf. In winter when the hills are wrapped in snow And look like giants slumbering in their shronds. I've seen their trembling branches bare and gray Lifted like stricken arms in carnest prayer. To me the branches of the wild-wood tree Are ladder-rounds, such as the patriarehs saw, in holy dreams, reaching from earth to heaven, And filled with angel messengers of light. G. W. BUNGAY.

These stanzas are as sweet and airy as their subject:

[For the Lonisville Bulletin.] TO A BUTTERFLY.

Butterfly, butterfly, happy are you, Kissing the flowers and sipping the dew; Bathing your wings in the Morn's rosy flush, Folding them up in the Evening's cool hush: When bright stars peep out through the beautiful sky, To rest on the Rose's sweet bosom and die.

Butterfly, butterfly, sportive and gay, Roaming from blossom to blossom all day, Inhaling their sweets in a long sigh of bliss, Thrilling and pure as a maiden's first kiss; When zephyrs are bearing the lily's last sigh, Then fold up your bright starry pinions and die:

For oh! it were meet for a life such as thine. Beantiful type of a nature divine,
To die where the blossoms are fading to sleep,
And o'er them the night-dews in loneliness weep; When the Nightingale's singing a soft lullaby On the Rose's sweet boson, oh, rest thee and die

The Snake Story a Humbug .- The New Hampshire Statesman says, on the authority of a neighbor of the Hill family, that the public are grossly imposed upon in this affair. Instead of there being a spontaneous and friendly feeling between the child and the reptile, there was the utmost repugnance between the two, at the time the father commenced his work. People there entertain no doubt whatever that he caught the snake some time ago; that he obtained it for the purpose of training the child to handle and control it; and that the exhibition of the two for money is the consideration had in view from the first by the inhuman parent. The assertion that Dr. Wright gave it as his opinion that a separation of the child and the snake would be fatal to the former, is a falsehood; there is no foundation whatever for it.

FURTHER BY THE CANADA.—We published resterday an interesting summary of foreign news. We now add an extract from Gen. Pelister's account of the battle of the 18th: there were only 4 feet 10 inches water in the yesterday an interesting summary of foreign news. We now add an extract from Gen. Pelissier's account of the battle of the 18th:

I had chosen for my post the Lancaster bat-tery, and it was thence I was to give the signal, by means of star rockets, for the general move-ment. Notwithstanding great difficulties in the ground, notwithstanding the obstacles accumulated by the enemy, and although the Russians, decidedly informed of our projects, were on their guard and ready to repel the assault, I may be permitted to believe that if the attack could have been general and instantaneous along the whole extent of the line, if there had been suddenness and unity of action in the efforts of our brave troops, the object would have been attain-ed. Unfortunately such was not the case, and an inconceivable fatality caused our failure.

I was still more than 1,000 metres from the spot where I was to give the signal when a brisk fusilade, mingled with grape shot, told me that the action had been seriously commenced toward the right. In fact, shortly before 3 o'clock, Gen. Mayran thought he saw my signal in a bomb, with its flaming fuse that had been fired off from the Brancion redoubt. He was informed, but to no purpose, of his mistake.

This brave and unfortunate General gave the order to commence the attack. The columns order to commence the attack. The columns of Saury and de Failly dashed forward at once. The first rush was magnificent; but hardly had these heads of columns advanced when they were assailed by a shower of ball and grape. This overwhelming grape came not merely from the works we wanted to carry, but from the en-emy's steamers also, which arrived with full steam on, and manoeuvred with equal good forsteam on, and manoeuvred with equal good for-tune and skill. We, however, must have in-flicted some damage on them. This prodigious fire arrested the efforts of our troops. It became impossible for our soldiers to march forward, but not one made a single step to retreat. It was then that Gen. Mayran, twice hit already, was struck down by grape shot and compelled to give up the command of his division.

All this was the work of a moment, and Germ

Mayran had been already carried off the field of battle, when I gave the signal from the spot I had reached of the Lancaster battery. The other troops then engaged in order to support the premature movement of the division on the right. This valiant division, disunited for an instant by the loss of its General, rallied promptly to the voice of General DeFailly. The promptly to the voice of General De Failly. The troops engaged, supported by the 2d battalion of the 95th regiment of the line, and one battalion of the Voltiguers of the Guard, under the orders of the brave Colonel Boudville, kept firm near a ridge, where the General placed them, and maintained their ground with intrepidity. In the mean time, being informed of this situation, which might become critical, I gave orders to General Regnault de Saint Jean d'Angely to send four battalions of the Voltigeurs of the Guard, taken from the general regeurs of the Guard, taken from the general re serve, to the succor of this division. Generals Mellenet and Uhrich marched with this fine troop, rallied what was scattered in the Careening Ravine, and came up with their solid support to Gen. De Failly, by occupying the bottom of General Mellenet repaired in person to General De Failly's right, with a battalion of grenadiers, which had been attached the evening before to the guard of the ravine, and was very useful to him by securing his right.

The central attack had no better success.

Gen. Brunet had not yet been able to complete all his arrangements when the cluster of rockets that were to serve as the signal, burst in the air. For twenty or five and twenty minutes all the right had already been prematurely engaged. Nevertheless his troops marched with resolution, but their valor failed under the steady fire of the Russians, and against unforeseen obstacles At the outset, General Brunet was mortally wounded by a musket ball in the centre of his chest. The flag of the 91st was broken by a ball, but it is needless to add that these glorious fragments were brought back by this brave regiment.

General Lafont de Villiers took the command of the division, and confided that of the troops engaged to Col. Lorencez. These kept steady while the rest of the division occupied the trenches, to be prepared against the eventualization of the contest of the conte ties of the contest.

Gen. d'Autemarre had not been On the left, able to engage before Brunet's division; besides, he could not account for the hurried fire of the musketry he heard in the direction of the reening Bay. But at the signal appointed for the assault he let loose with impetuosity the 5th Foot Chasseurs and the 1st battallion of the 19th Regiment of the line, who, by keeping along the crest of the Karabelnaia ravine, reached the entrenchment that connects it with the Malakoff Tower, scaled this entrenchment, and thus entered the enciente itself. Already the sappers of the engineers were planting the ladders for the remainder of the 19th and 26th Regiments, whose general, d'Autemarre, was hurrying or the movement behind his valiant head of the column. One instant we could believe in suc-Our eagl-s had been planted in the Ruscess. Our eagles had been planted in the Russian works. Unfortunately, this hope was speedily dissipated. Our allies had encountered such obstacles in their attack of the great Redan, and they had met such a fire of grape, that inspite of their well known tenacity, they had been already compelled to make a move-ment of retreat. Such were the spirit of our troops that, despite the circumstance, they would have pushed on and continued to charge home the enemy; but the want of simultaneous Russians free to overwhelm us with the reserves and the artillery of the great Redan, and the enemy lost not a moment to direct against our brave Foot Chasseurs all the other reserves of Karabelnaia.

Before such imposing forces, Commandant Garnier, of the 5th battalion, already wounded five times with gunshot, endeavored but in vain to hold the ground that had been won. Obliged to retire before numbers, he crossed the en-trenchment. Gen. Niol rallied his brigade; reinforced by the 39th of the line, they wished to attempt a fresh offensive movement in order to insure the success of this new effort, and on word being sent by Gen. d'Autemarre, that his reserve was reduced to the 74th of the line, I sent him the regiment of Zouaves of the Guard; but on the arrival of these veterans of our African wars, the movement no longer having the unity so desirable for a coup of this vigor, with one so desirable for a coup of this vigor, with one single division unsupported either on the right or on the left, and cut up by the artillery of the Redan, against which the Allies were suspending their attack, I did not fail soon to perceive that every favorable chance was exhausted. A fresh effort would merely have occasioned a useless effusion of blood It was half-past eight. I gave orders in all directions to return to the trenches. This operation was effected with dignity, much coolness, and without pursuit of the enemy on any one point. A part of the Rus-

Constantinople, June 25.—Losses in the War. From an authority which there is every reason to trust I learn that the Turkish Empire has lost 130,000 men since the declaration of the war in 1853. The French have, since their arrival in the East, lost 70,000, dead or invalided; while the British have suffered to the extent of while the British have suffered to the extent of 25,000. Although Austria has not been at war, yet her occupation of the Provinces and the formation of immense camps, which are always more or less unhealthy, have caused her no slight diminution of force. But, putting aside the neutral powers, the allies—French, British, and Turks—appear to have lost about 230,000 men. The loss of the Russians was stated by Lord Lansdown to be also 230,000, but there is reason to believe that this calculation is below.

reason to believe that this calculation is below the truth. Taking into account the mortality on board the ships-of-war and transports, and among the laborers of different kinds attached to the armies, of whom there are some thousands in the Crimea, it may be assumed that from 500,000 to 600,000 men have perished or invalided since the commencement of the war. And yet it cannot be said that there have been many bloody battles, or indeed any fighting on the scale of the gigantic contests which marked the wars of the French Empire. When opera-tions are conducted on a larger field we must expect still greater losses, and be prepared for supplying reinforcements in greater numbers and with greater regularity than has as yet been thought necessary.

The Vienna conferences have again been the subject of a long talk in the British House of Commons, and in reply to an interrogatory of Mr. Gibson, Lord John Russell, in the language of the Times, "made a clean breast of it, telling everything with the simplicity of a child." The Times, of the 7th inst., says of Lord John's disclosures:

It is rather a remarkable revelation to be made without any reserve or misgiving, that there exists in the cabinet, which is wholly re-sponsible for the continuance of the war, a Minister of great consideration, who thinks it un-cecessary. This is a fact.

It comes out that the English and French plenipotentiaries were agreed, and that they rethe acceptance of the Austrian proposition; that M. Drouyn de l'Huys, on finding he had not the concurrence of his government. resigned; 'hat this want of concurrence was owing not to the independent opinion of the French Emperor and this religious to the discontinuous for the Principles. his advisers, but to the dissent of the British government; and that, notwithstanding that dis-sent and the consequent retirement of the French plenipotentiary, Lord John Russell has thought it best to devour his differences in silence, and assist his colleagues in carrying on a war which he believes to be wholly gratuitous, and involving the nation in the guilt of causeless bloodshed.

This is certainly, as the Times says, "a very odd story," and it appears that Lord John reserved his relations of his peaceful attitude until the allies were experiencing the dark side of war, and there was no rashness, no courage of the confession of peaceful wishes, and of an inward dissatisfaction with the war.

What They Intend to Do Next.—Letters from Paris state that there is reason for believing that instead of adopting the slow approach of sap and mine, as was generally believed just after the 18th ult., the allied generals have determined to deliver, and that speedily, a general assault on the works. The German telegraph brings word of an expedition to Odessa, but it is not likely that the generals of the allied armies will reduce their forces before Sebas opol at this juncture. Large reinforcements are leaving France, preceded by a considerable number of officers of high rank, to take the places of those who have fallen in the recent engagements.

FORT LARAMIE, June 27.

Later from Fort Laramie—Emigrant Killed-Depredations of Indians .- From some returning Californians who reached here yesterday afternoon, we learn the following:
A few miles above the Platte bridge, they met

Mr. Gibson's train from Buchanan county, Mo. who told them that, whilst traveling along the road, at Deer Creek (thirty miles below the bridge), the Indians came up and asked one of the hands at the head of the train where the captain was; he pointed out Mr. Rob't Gibson they rode up to him, and while one shook him by hand the other shot him dead. They then rode off toward the river.

The next day, a few miles below the bridge, they were hailed by some emigrants on the opposite side (the north), who stated that the dry previous, whilst opposite Deer creek, they were attacked by eighteen Indians, whilst in camp; one woman was lanced twice, and a man also canced and sixteen head of herees drive off. lanced, and sixteen head of horses driven off. The emigrants pursued them a short distance to the hills, where they took shelter behind a small breast-work, made of sods, and showed fight, upon which they returned to camp.

This is the first murder I have heard of; they have stolen many horses below and above here, and now they have commenced killing, and I doubt not will keep it up.

No troops yet, and the Lord knows when they will be here; had the Government sent about four companies of mounted troops here about the 1st of May, the Indian war would be about over now, for all that is necessary is to kill a few hundred of the Monicoujan and Brule bands, and the rest are all whipped.

Yours truly.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, JULY 25, 1855.

FINE FRUIT.-The present season has been eminently favorable to all the fruits grown in this climate, and our pomologists have cheering prospects of the most abundant crops ever produced in Kentucky. Our cultivators, among whom the right spirit has begun to prevail, are bestowing unusual labor and care upon their orchards and vineyards, and the result can hardly fail to be not only a larger production, but a decided improvement in the variety and quality of their fruits. Among our scientific horticulturists, we suppose our readers need hardly be told, the first rank is held by our friend Lawrence Young, Esq, whose unrivaled fruits have become objects of so much interest with the citizens of Louisville, and whose judgment, taste, and skill as a cultivator are known to all the pomologists in our country. We found time, a few days since, to visit his fine farm, and often as we had before seen his magnificent orchards and admired the perfection of his culture, we were never so much gratified and delighted by any previous visit. So far from relaxing in his labors, he is working harder than ever to bring his fruits to the highest state of perfection. It was plainly enough to be seen that the President of the Kentucky Horticultural Society has no idea of yielding the palm to any of his meritorious young competitors, worthily as many of them are striving for the honor. We found two of his men at work among his peach trees stripping off the superfluous fruit and removing the dead and the redundant branches so as to admit the air and sunshine to every ripening peach, and were told by Mr. Young that the operation had been going on in his orchards for two months and would continue a month longer. Such peaches and pears as we saw growing upon these trees it delights the eye to behold. Some of his pears, the Belle Lucrative and Flemish Beauty, in particular, have already attained a size fully equal to the ordinary growth of those fruits, and his Leopold, Grand Admirable, and Pavie Pomponne peaches give promise of even surpassing this season their former great reputation. This superiority is due quite as much to the thinning and pruning process, in which Mr. Y. is perfectly unrelenting, as to the care with which he plows and cultivates his grounds. His peach trees, compared with the trees commonly seen in the country, appeared nearly bare, but he assured us that many of them were still over-loaded and must be subjected to a further reduction of their burdens.

Mr. Young's crop of pears, this season, will be much the largest that he has ever yet produced. His trees have escaped entirely the blight which has been fatal to many pear trees in this neighborhood, and every tree in his extensive orchard appeared to us to be as full of fruit as it could bear. Nothing could exceed the luxuriance of his Seckle pears, the most luscious variety of that delicious family of fruits. The Bartletts also promise to be exceedingly fine, and in fact every species of fruit in his orchards, plums, apples, apricots, nectarines, peaches, and pears, all do credit to Mr. Young's skill as a cultivator.

As we were walking through his grounds he called our attention to a young plantation of pear trees, made last spring, in which, out of 160 plants, we did not see one that was not flourishing, and many of them were loaded with fruit.

We shall look with impatience for the appearance of these splendid fruits in our market and upon the tables of our Horticultural Society during the next few weeks.

RESUMPTION OF FELLOWES & Co. of New on next Monda, morning for a further hearing, ORLEANS.—It will be seen by our published at which time he would deliver a written opin-RESUMPTION OF FELLOWES & Co. of NEW natches from New Orlean Fellowes & Co., of that city, whose partial suspension in January last caused universal regret here, have resumed payment and will continue business as usual. As members of this firm had been honorably connected with the business of this city for a quarter of a century, enjoying during that entire period the full confidence of our people and the highest credit, we desire thus publicly to congratulate them on the happy solution of their financial difficulties. We remember that when the suspension of the house was announced the liabilities were estimated at from one million and a quarter to one and a half millions of dollars. The adjustment of so large a sum in so short a time, and during a period of singular financial embarrassment. argues strongly in favor of the ability of the management and the financial strength of the

We said yesterday that a person on Main street named Eastman (we had no idea who Eastman was) had attacked and beaten a sick man. The name of the gentleman who made the assault was not Eastman. We do not think that the assault was justifiable, but a good many of our old friends have come to us and fully saiisfied us that the author of it has always sustained the character of an amiable, high-minded. and chivalric gentleman. Moreover he is and has always been a warm supporter of ours. Under these circumstances we wish to unsay whatever was personally offensive in our little paragraph of yesterday.

A Cure for the Headache.—A correspondent has kindly furnished the following receipt for the headache: "The present extreme heat of the summer has caused considerable debility in the nervous system, especially with the remaissex, causing that most painful disease, headache. sex, causing that most painful disease, headache. For its immediate relief, take a piece of red blotting-paper (such at 18 used in the public departments), fold four or five folds, in size sufficient to cover the whole of the part affected, dip it in a basin of ace-water, and apply it, pressed close to the head As it very readily absorbs water, it also eva orates accordingly, and with the hand repeat the cold water—the paper remaining—every five minutes, and so on till the pain ceases, which will be, at the furthest time, half an hour. The great power of the paper is. half an hour. The great power of the paper is, that, in the evaporation of the water, it absorbs the heat from the head, which results in quick relief. Depend upon it, this is no hoax."

THE RACE HORSE "FRANKFORT" SOLD .- P. S. Swigert, Esq., of Frankfort, solu, on Monday last, his fine four year old colt Frankfort, by imported Glencoe, out of Mary Morris, for the sum of five thousand dollars to Calvin Green, Esq., proprietor of the Broad Rock course, near the city of Richmond, Virginia Frankfort has already started for his new home, where he is soon to run for a large stake of eight entries four mile heats.

Frankfort and Wild Irishman are brothers Mr. Swigert is the owner of three half sisters of these famous horses, all out of Mary Morris-one by Grey Eagle, one by imported Envoy, and the other, a two year old, by imported Yorkshire. The two former have now both sucking filly colts by imported Glencoe equal to any in Kentucky for form and beauty.

THE PHILADELPHIA SLAVE CASE .- The telegraph a few days ago mentioned the kidnapping of three slaves from their owner at Philadelphia. He was the Hon. John H. Wheeler, of North Carolina, American Minister to Nicaragua, and he, accompanied by his slaves, had taken a steamer at Philadelphia for New York, from whence he intended to proceed on his mission. A preacher named Passmore Wil liamson went on board of the steamer, and, by the aid of several negroes, ran the slaves off. Williamson was brought before Judge Kane, of the U. S. district court, before whom Mr. Wheeler, claimant of the slaves, testified as follows:

I took the five o'clock boat, and proceeded to the hurricane deck, accompanied by my servants; there were a few persons only there; several ladies; while there the defendant, Passmore Williamson, stepped up to me, and asked me to allow him to have some conversation with my servants; I told him if he had anything to say he could say it to me; he laid his hands on the woman's shoulder very pointedly, and said, "do you know that you are in a free State, and have only to go ashore to be free;" I told him they knew where they were going and with whom; the defendant said to me that he did not want to hear me talk, but would hear the woman; he asked her if she was a slave; she replied yes; he said just step on shore and you are free; he pulled her by the arm, when she and her boys began to cry, and said they wanted to go with their master; several gentlemen stepped up and interfered; two negroes caught me by the collar, one on each side; one of them said to me, if you draw. a weapon or make any resistance, I will cut your throat from ear to ear; a gentleman, who appeared to be a traveler, stepped up and told the negroes to release me; they did so; the defendant and they forced my serval ts on shore, and hurried them away; then the gentleman inter-fered; I told them that I was in a country of laws, and that it could protect me in my person and property; I followed after them; they took my servants around in a street, with a broad space (Dock street), where a hack was in waiting, and they forced them into it; I asked the defendant what they were going to do with my servants; he replied, that he would be responsible for any claim that I might have against the servants; he gave me his name as Passmore Williamson; I saw a policeman standing near, and I stepped up to him and asked him to take notice what was doing and who were the persons; the defendant stepped up to the officer and whispered something in his ear, when the officer replied, that he would have nothing to do with catching slaves; I told him that I didn't want lim to catch slaves, but only wanted him to take notice. The testimony being closed, Mr. Vandyke said that he had two motions to make; first, an attachment against the defendant for making an insufficient return; and, second, that he be held to answer for willful and malicious perjury. Mr. Vandyke urged his motion with argument, after quoting the act of Congress of Judge Kane said, that the case was of so grave a character, and the consequences so great to the defendant, that he was desirous, before pronouncing an opinion, to ake time to consider and examine the matter. In the meantime, the defendant must enter bail in the sum of $5,000 on the motion to hold him for perjury, to appear on upon the subject. The motion for a posed of at the same time. There appears to have been a preconcerted operation.

A RUSSIAN PRISONER .- An army surgeon writes to the Kilkenny Moderator, on the 11th, from before Sebastopol:

On the 7th, a little hop-o'-my-thumb of a soldier made prisoner a Russian officer, whom he conducted with much pride to the first parallel, the officer overtopping the little man's musket and bayonet. I asked the Russian if he spoke Frinch; he shock his head and said, "no speak;" but he exclaimed "doctor, doctor." I made signs that I was one, and he then took of his coat, when I found that he had a bullet wound coat, when I round that he had a buffet would at the back of his neck. He now tried to make himselt understood by talking Latin. Pointing to the wound in his neck, he asked, "Liortale est?" When I told him it was not mortal, he pressed me by the hand, and said, "Pater mate-ret soror sunt mihi." He said he was a Lieutenant of the 7th Dnieper Regiment. When he saw me open my case for a bandage to dress his wound, he thrust his hand into one of his own coat pockets, and produced his own for that purpose. All the Russian soldiers, very wicely, carry these things about with them

FROM RED RIVER. - Last week a party from the Selkirk settlement, arrived here in company with Mr. Green. These are mostly fumilies have come for the purpose of settling here, having become tired of the frequent annoyances and loses sustained by them from the Sioux. They represent the settlement at Pembina to be in a per lous situation, and that many of the outside settlers have been obliged to abandon their homes and cross over into the British sett'ement in order to be protected f-o.o Judian incursions. Mary whites have been killed and a large number of horses and cattle run off during the past winter and spring. The people in that remote settlement have asked the Government or help and protection, repeatedly, and during the last session of Congress it was promised but nothing has been done to afford them immediat relief. The party came via Crow Wing and St. Paul, to this place. A large train was to have started about the same time for this point, and they are anxiously looked for daily.

AN AMERICAN IN SEBASTOPOL .- Dr. W. R Whitehead, an American surgeon in employ of the Russians, writes from Sebastopol to Prof. Smith, of the Virginia Military Institute:

SEBASTOPOL, Saturday, April 14, 1855. I am in the Imperial service of Russia, as military physician and surgeon. I am indebted to Prince Gortschakoff for the peculiar advantages that I enjoy as to rank, Physician of a regiment of 5,000 men "Stachli Ordinator"-rank between that of Major and Lieutenant Colonel. I am at present attached to cue of the large hospitals at Sebastopol. Af ter having graduated in medicine at the University of Penn., I left the United States for France. Upon my arrival in Paris I entered immediately upon the practical study of medi-cine. I remained in Paris about one year and three months; left Paris for Vienna last fall; remained in Vienna three months, and then left for Russia. I have been in Russia four months one month at Sebastopol.

Sebastopol still remains. The English and French have made no progress yet toward taking it. Since my arrival here several sorties have been effected by the Russians with marked success, though they have always lost a considerable The allies have been bombarding the city for the last five days, and caused a great deal of damage, but it has been dreadfully paid for the batteries of the allies are now nearly silent, and those of the Russians stronger than ever .-The Russians are concentrating troops about Sebastopol. Events have proved that the English soldier is much inferior to either the French or Russian, and that with certain exceptions the Russian is as good as the French. Sebastopol will never be taken—it may be blown up by the Russians. I have enjoyed a fine opportunity of performing surgical operations, and must remain at the ambulance to-night, because the Russians intend making a sortie. I have very little time at present to write.

With every consideration, &c., your friend, W. R. WHITEHEAD.

SEBASTOPOL AND KERTSCH .- The Paris cor respondent of Le Progres is epigrammatic on "Monsieur Bonaparte." It says, speaking of the Crimean Vandalism:

There were, in the Crimea, two cities, a seat of war and a seat of art - Sebastopol and Kertsch -the one terrible, and ready for combat; the other charming, and open to hospitality. At Sebastopol, ten thousand pieces of cannon, a fleet, and a heroic garrison; at Kertsch, a por crowded with merchantmen, elegant promenades. an old temple of Esculapius—women and children. M. Bonaparte has taken Kertsch."

Workings of the Reciprocity Treaty—The Lake Fisheries.—The reciprocity treaty has given a new field to the lake fisheries on the Canada side of Lake Huron. Some 200 American fishermen are now engaged within 50 miles each side of Goderich in the business. This has greatly stimulated the Cannucks, and it is estimated 400 of them are now engaged in the same business. About 100 miles of the lake shore is lined with gill-nets and seins. Every boat that comes in has a large number of salmon trout, from 30 to 50 pounds weight. White fish are very large ash caught at Collingwood terminus of the Northern railway, from Toronto, are packed in ice, and go to Oswego, Rome, Utica, Albany, and New York. Great quantities taken at Goderich go in ice to Cleveland and Cincinnati.

More Serious Depredation .- The creditors of the Ohio and Mississippi Road, who were engaged in taking up the rails at Sumner, on Thursday, took the precaution to station men tachment for contempt will go over, and be dis- along the line so as to inform the conductor of the approaching train of what had been done. The locomotive was, therefore, brought to a halt before it arrived at the gap. Another depredation was committed Saturday night, near Xema, by taking up a rail; but they did not take the same precaution as was done on a previous occasior, and one or two of the cars were badly injured. No persons on board were hurt, and the train arrived at 9 o'clock yesterday morning—St. Louis Rep., July 23.

Inspector, the Washington correspondent of the N. Y. Courier, says: "Some two months the N. Y. Courier, says: age, I stated upon information from the Treasu-Department that the amount of duties to be efunded under the reciprocity treaty was estimated at half a million of dollars. Must of the cases have been examined, and the allowances made amount to $473,000. By for the largest portion of this sum has been awarded to peris on the lakes.

James Dongherty, passing countsrfeit money. Continued. Conrad Summer. drunk and disorderly conduct. Bail in $100 for two manths.

John Kiein, felony. He is charged with passing a counterfeit hill, hat the offence was committed outside of the city limits and the case was dismissed. The opinion seems to be that Klein was not aware that the bill was worthless.

Commonwealth by Geo. Franklin vs. Nicholas Mohn and wife. Mrs. Mohn had kieked Mrs. Franklin. The parties were already under their own recognizance for their good behavior. Additional bail was required of Mohn.

A pesce warrant and an ordinance warrant were dismissed. Peter Reach, who resides from miles from Corydon, Indiana, came to the city with his market wagon. His was driving in a slow troton Market street, between Shelby and Clay, and a child about four years old, danghter of Wm. Davis, saddletree maker, was crossing the street at the time of the accident. The pole struck the child, knocked it down, and the wheels of the vehicle passed over the child, causing justant death. Resch was slightly in liquor. He was halled, but did not stop. He said that he did not see the child. The omrt said it was evidently an accident, but how far the accident was cansed by negligence on the part of the accused, a Jury would have to determine. Bail in $1,000 to answer a charge of felony, which was given.

were sent before the grand jury. [Fer the Lenisville Bulletin.]

A CARD. INTERPRETER OF THE CITY COURT. A writer in the Courier takes the liberty to speak of me as a "native-born German who understood nothing beyond Pennsylvania Dutch" when I was elected interpreter of the city This writer utters what is not true when he intimates that I do not understand the German language. It is a well-known fact that I am acquainted with that language and can both speak it and write it accurately.

I resigned my office because my business required such resignation at my hands, and not because of any want of knowledge to discharge the duties thereof. I trust the editor of the Courier, when he shall think it expedient to violate the truth again, will find some other subject, and not interfere with me.

PETER SILAR.

AGRICULTURAL DIVISION OF THE PATENT OFFICE—The preservation of Potatoes for Seed. Mr. J. N. Chandler, a correspondent of the Patent Office, speaking of the preservation of potatoes for seed, says the potato, when first obtained from its native mountains, was a small, watery, and even bitter tuber, but by cultivation it has been brought into so high and refined s ate that most of the countries of the civilized globe look at it as one of the most important articles of food. In answer to the question by what means has it been made a chief article of food, he says by violating the laws of Nature:

"Every one who has ever noticed the differ-ence between the flavor of a potato in the fall when first dug, and one in spring which has been kept in a large dry cellar, has observed that the tlavor becomes much impaired—much more so than those which are buried in holes in the earth, where they retain nearly all of their fresh ness and vitality. It has also been observed that farmers who have small and inconvenient cellars keep their potatoes in better condition than Hence, by storing them in the latter, and let them wilt before planting, they become weak-ened in their nature, and are subject to degeneracy, and finally to disease.

"In order to obtain good potatoes for seed, make choice of a small spot of arrable land in which water will not stand—an eastern slope and new ground are the best-ploughed early in the spring and furrowed 4 or 5 inches deep, 24 feet apart. Select middling sized potatoes 24 feet apart. Select middling sized potatoes which have touched the ground during the winter previous, but do not cut them. Drop one every 8 inches along the furrows, and cover them by filling the furrows with earth. Then cover them with a top-dressing of forest leaves or straw 2 inches deep. As soon as the tops of the young plants are 2 inches high, pass between them with a shovel plough, follow with a hoe, destroying the weeds and levelling the ground; do not hill. This is all you have to do until fall. When the ground begins to freeze, cover over with straw, chaff, or forest leaves, 6 inches deep, to keep them from frost. Your potatoes will now have a chance to ripen and rest during the winter. In this way, you will have the greatest yiell and best quality. Continue this course from year to year and the rot will not only disappear, but your crop will increase from 25 to 100 per cent. The third year you may increase your field crop by plouging in fine manure. You will now have had nature's course." them by filling the furrows with earth.
